CHAPEL NOTES

Rev. H. O. Childs of Rangeley, Me., a graduate of Bates in the class of '97, conducted the Chapel Exercises Wednesday morning, October 7. Mr. Hinton, '17, sang a solo.

On Thursday morning Rev. George R. Stair, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Portland, conducted the exercises. Mr. Renwick, '18, sang. At the close of the service, Mr. Stair gave an address to the men on "The Joy and Value of Bible Study." He said: "The most important subject that can occupy the mind of a young man is the study of the Bible. We train our mental, physical, and social natures, but too many times we forget the spiritual nature. The Bible is the best book in the world. It has God for its author, Truth for its contents, Humanity for its audience, and Redemption for its theme. There are four reasons why we should engage in Bible Study; first, the Bible is God's book; second, the Bible is pre-eminently Man's book; third, because of its wonderful influence on history; fourth, because of its place in the life of to-day. Other books are Man-inspired, but the Bible is God-inspired. It was not written for a class, time, or a language, but for all mankind. Some books meet certain classes, but the Bible meets all classes.

Dr. Seeley conducted the exercises Saturday morning, giving a brief address from the text: "First the blade; then the ear; then the full corn in the ear."

Y. W. C. A.

The meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Thursday, October 8, was in charge of the Bible Study Committee. Miss Bradbury, '16, chairman of the committee, was leader, and Miss Buswell spoke on the subject of Bible Study. A piano solo by Miss Murphy, '16, was delightfully rendered.

EUKUKLIOΣ

The first meeting of Eukuklios Society was held Friday evening in the Gymnasium at Rand Hall. After a short business meeting at which Miss Kane, '16, was elected Vice-President, a social hour was enjoyed. One of the most interesting events of the evening was an Interclass Suit Case Race, won by Miss King, '16. In addition to this, a grand march and Virginia Reel were enjoyed. Then followed the Faculty Song and class cheers.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION MEETING

At a meeting of Bates College Athletic Association, Oct. 2, the election of the managers and assistant managers, postponed from last spring, was held. Parker, '16, was elected manager of tennis. Merrill, '16, was elected manager of track. Gray, '16, and Lawrence, '16, were chosen assistant managers of baseball, Bacon, '17, assistant manager of track in the place of Lane, and Bush, '17, assistant manager of tennis, to fill the place of Purinton who had resigned. Boothby was nominated and elected junior member of the Advisory Board. Mr. Harold Libbey was elected to act as President of the Advisory Board. Mr. Hanley was nominated and elected President of the Arbitration Board. It was decided that the season tickets would be good for every home game excepting the Maine game.
SUCH IS LIFE

In the heart of the Beautiful Forest, where mortal foot never trod, the Queen of the Fairies lived in a palace of ivory, carved like the finest of lace; the windows were of diamonds, and when the sun shone thru the leaves of the great trees, upon the ivory palace, all the little windows glittered like sparks of fire. In the tower toward the east, the diamonds were biggest and brightest of all, for here was the Queen's own chamber.

These windows shone so brightly, that they reflected the light, even to the edge of the forest. And one day a Prince who was riding there, early in the morning, saw the distant gleam, and resolved to know what there was in the forest that could be so dazzling. He followed the light thru the forest, where the trees towered so high he could not see the tops, and the stillness was like a weight upon the heart of the Prince. He began to sing softly, to convince himself that there was nothing to fear. The voice of the Prince was rich and sweet, and as he rode, he sang many songs of valor and battle, but mostly he sang of Love, for the Prince was young, and he knew naught of Love, save the songs.

In her tower-room, the Queen of the Fairies was watching the sunlight sift thru the trees, and she was thinking of an ugly little dwarf, who came daily to the palace to deliver honey and rose leaves. He was the only man she had ever seen and she, too, was young. The Queen leaned from the window and listened; down the forest-aisle came the Prince on his black horse, singing his song of love. The Queen gasped—he was so beautiful! He looked up at the beautiful face in the window and their eyes met so suddenly that he left the song unfinished and stretched out his arms toward her. Instantly, before a word was spoken, she vanished from the window. The Prince rubbed his eyes and looked again expecting to see her come back; at last when no sign or movement at the window revealed her presence, the Prince leaped from his horse, and ran to the palace door. No one answered his rap, he pushed open the door, and made his way thru the rooms. They were deserted, even the tower-room was empty. He ran to the window and leaned out, no living thing was in sight but his own horse, grazing quietly on grass by the door. He cried aloud, no one answered him. Then he saw upon the pure ivory of the floor beneath the window a great drop of blood. Anxious and bewildered he turned to the door. There stood the ugly dwarf, grinning at him, hideously.

"The Fairy Queen"—he demanded—"where is she?"

The dwarf laughed hoarsely and pointed to the crimson drop. "You have killed her. So it is with all fairies who look upon the face of a mortal. Be gone. Your presence pollutes this place.”

As in a dream, the Prince made his way out of the palace and mounted his horse. As he rode away, he saw that the diamond windows no longer gleamed in the sun, but the whole place looked dull and gloomy; and the grinning dwarf stood in the door.

So the Prince rode back to his father's palace; and one day his father pointed out to him a fat dowager with seven children and bade him marry her for the good of the Kingdom. And the Prince obeyed his father and married the fat dowager, and the seven children called him father, and he never again rode in the Beautiful Forest.

BIBLE STUDY DAY

For some time the need of some systematic plan of enrolling members for the winter's work in Bible Study has been felt. Accordingly, Thursday, October 6th, was set apart as a day for this work. During the weekly conference hour which follows the regular chapel exercises on Thursday mornings, those of the men who were interested were invited to remain and listen to a brief presentation of the subject by the Reverend G. R. Stair of Portland, Me., at the close of which those of the men who remained were invited to enroll in this work. During the remainder of the day a systematic canvass was made by the group leaders in which an attempt was made to see every man in College who had not as yet enrolled. So far one hundred and fifty men have been received and with other leaders to hear from it looks as if this winter's classes will be larger than ever.
Bates easily won the first home-game of the season from Fort McKinley last Saturday, by the score of 55 to 0. Eight touchdowns were made and Manuel, Bates' field captain, kicked seven out of eight goals. McKinley made only three first downs during the entire game, two of them by forward passes. The visitors were not able to get past the Bates' 45-yard line and never threatened to score.

John Butler made the longest run of the game, going around left end for a 65-yard gain. Curtin and Conners were also consistent ground gainers, each of them scoring two touchdowns. DeWever smashed through right tackle in the second period for a 30-yard run and made a touchdown. At quarterback Pidgeon and Talbot played a consistent game. The line held well in spite of the fact that the veterans, Captain Moore and Harding, were unable to play. In the last half of the game, after the score was 35 to 0, nearly every man on the squad was given a tryout.

This victory, especially by so large a score, has given renewed courage not only to the team but also to the Bates supporters in anticipation of the State series. Although the team is light and somewhat inexperienced, every Bates man and woman believes that Bates will be a strong candidate for the state championship.

Loyalty to his college is a cherished tradition of the student. It predicts an attitude in the callow days, which later in the poise of mature years undergoes a refinement as comprehensive as it is certain.

The self-made man, the man whose fortunes lead him outside the halls of learning, often marvels at the superlative zeal which characterizes the devotion of the college-going youth to his Alma Mater, and marveling, he wonders if it can be genuine, abiding.

Every man considers that the football team of his college is the apple of the country's eye. The track team is the best that can be produced. The baseball men make up the best nine of that particular section. All these things are real and genuine in the mind of the true and loyal student.

Freshmen, are you catching this spirit of loyalty and enthusiasm? Soon you will be called upon to don your infantile headgear. Do not be a quitter, but catch the spirit of loyalty and you will be supporting a winning cause. Always keep before you the thought that the other fellow is a good fellow; that in spite of the rivalries of adolescent days, the other fellow is quite worth while. Loyalty to your college is surely developing into loyalty to your fellow men, loyalty to country, and loyalty to truth.

MAY'S SURPRISE

Creeping from shadow and dark, Curling away thru the grass, Made for the bath of a lark Or the buttercups' looking-glass;

Sparkling o'er roughening trail, Rippling in widening tide, Trusting the spring not to fail, Trusting the light still to guide;

Flashing response to the sun, Cooling the thirst of a flower, Freak of a May flood, in fun Dances the brook of an hour.

POLITICS CLUB

At the regular meeting of the Politics Club last Wednesday evening, Davis, '15, spoke on the recent Maine election. Professor Gould gave a talk on the causes of the European War, following which Professor Carroll spoke on the economic effects of the War. The program was followed by a business meeting at which the subjects for the next meeting were chosen. It was decided to discuss the real value of the Student Council and to make a comparative study with other similar organizations.

Y. M. C. A.

The weekly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was omitted last Wednesday evening to give those who desired an opportunity to attend the Joint Laymen's meeting of the Baptist and Free Baptist State Conventions.

The Y. M. C. A. cabinet voted last week to change the place of holding the regular meetings from Libbey Forum to the Chapel, Roger Williams Hall. This will be the arrangement until further notice.
