Back-to-Bates Again

This week end brings another Back-to-Bates program to the campus, a whirlwind affair, commencing with the Friday rally, culminating with the annual football dance Saturday night. There may not be as much pageantry this year nor as much elaboration in the past. It is hoped that this week end will come under more favorable circumstances than surround us now. Without trying to be morbid, the realization comes to us that there will be some here who may never see such an occasion again, that there are more here who may never have the opportunity to attend Back-to-Bates once more, that there may not even be another such week end for many years to come.

What Might Be Written

There are readers who will say that enough articles and editorials have been written about the student's place in war time, that something, anything in a higher and more optimistic mood might well have been chosen.

This space could very easily have been devoted to explaining the extraordinary Bates spirit exemplified by the large number who went to meet the team when it returned from Orono last Saturday night, even though not victorious in the game. Some had coupons for gas, some had tickets; pink petals to the Frosh Folks, that deserves umpteen roses. If the coming rally won't be the most gala celebration, whether it be when we stand to sing the Hand of Fate that changed near the Nile, the excitement of the coming week end will still be felt at the rally, that is man more important things in life than the winning streak. Let's all try to feel ourselves part of the winning streak, whether it be when we stand to sing the Hand of Fate.

Scene Around

New Allied Offensive

The U.S. and the U.S.S.R. have initiated a new offensive in the Middle East area.

As Hanson Baldwin, of the New York Times, sees the picture in the Mediterranean area, the Axis forces are in an advantageous position. They have somewhat nullified this advantage, however, by their own offensive in the North African desert.

In the Nation

Erecting a war defense plant is the present problem of the U.S. government. The various industries are being urged to turn out as many war materials as possible, and the government is providing the necessary funds.

The war bond campaign is also being urged by the government. The bonds are needed to purchase the necessary materials for the war effort.

Bowdoin Runners Eke Out One Point Victory

The Garnett jills and jillsies took the skin off last Friday afternoon's victory by scoring the winning point only after a. free for all of 40 yards that the gamesmanship of the home team and those vibrant visitors would have been embarrassed to witness.

The victory was a close one. It was a game of skill on both sides. The gamesmanship of the home team and those visitors would have been embarrassed to witness.

The bowdoin girls were cheered on by the home crowd, while the visitors were loudly booed. The game was a close one, with the home team winning by a narrow margin of one point.

One of the easiest things to do in life is to stay fit. At a game like this, the pressure is on to perform well. The bowdoin girls were cheered on by the home crowd, while the visitors were loudly booed. The game was a close one, with the home team winning by a narrow margin of one point.
