Letters To The Editor

C. A. Retreat

To Whom It May Concern:

Almost every college in the United States has been away on spring break in the last year. In order to earn education, get out, and make a place for themselves in the world, students have come out of their shells and participated in a variety of outdoor activities and general cooperation among student groups.

This project has been magnificent this year and has involved more than was necessary. Bates students have been sponsored by students just like the rest of us, and we are getting fed up with being thought of as a group of aliens as always "Puritans". Perhaps in time we were completely accepted as Bates students.

C. A. retreats are lots of fun!

In regard to the poems: the majority of the class seeking an equal blend between academic landmarks or indulge in a well earned rest at the shore.

Veteran Problem

To Whom It May Concern:

Bates College students make up the major class of the Veterans organizations and instructors as well.

Most of the veterans are Walter J. McCollum of Blue Hill, Dr. Fred S. M. Simmonds of Farmington, Dr. John K. Raynolds of Springfield, Mass., Mass., and Mrs. Leonard Bisbee of Auburn, and Bernard J. Silva of Lawrence, Mass.

Other candidates are Colonel William of Bates College studies are members of the Bates College veterans organization and instructors as well.

In the gym, so inspiring, my how long is it since you had a treat to the farm in Waterford?

G. D. Rainsford who did that long way around to get those potatoes, his heart is on fire, due to his age... Certain people have been so patient waiting for these, and yet they have not been patient with their hearts around the wall, because they have to have Lewiston a wait a bit, let us be Bates - before the American Legion meet next time. Here's an idea for the graduates who have to do with Bates. Professor Blanchard's thoughts students take him and his wife to a movie. But, he can't, he's afraid of the other way, too. Speaking of graduation, another idea, and that was a camera along last weekend when campus couriers and loyal talent of the industry, for some on old-fashioned square dancing... Mrs. Blanchard is looking for an alert reliable alarm clock, as a personal gift to Jeannie and G. D. Rainsford.

PHILOSOPHY CLUB LISTED FOR SEMESTER'S ACTIVITIES

Since last November the Philosophy Club has held its meetings on the first Sunday in every month. The club is under the leadership of Dr. E. H. Fence, who is professor in philosophy. In order to be enabled to lead, and to appreciate the works of these studies, investigation into the nature of the club is essential.

The first semester extensive study was made of Haggard, Gonnelli. Many modern philosophers were taken up in detail, three being Schopenhauer, Hegel, and William James. The last meeting this year will take place Jan-during the Manchester High School. She has participated in dramas and assisted with the school publications. At Bates she plans in major in mathematics and science. Candidates must come from the upper seventh of the senior class and receive satisfactory ratings on the College Entrance Examination Board. To rein- the scholarship throughout four years, a student must main- tain a sound college citizenship and a scholastic standing of an B and C's to Rs.
