At the inauguration of the Student Council during a regular chapel period last May this statement was made in effect:

The Student Council is the executive representative body. Members of the Council are your representatives. The Council works all year and at all times to discuss its activities with you and to receive your suggestions and proposals for consideration. Its regular meetings are open to all men.

At last we've had a chance to prove to our team that we're not all eggheads. All the boys we knew before they went one hundred per cent into the United States Champs. Now they've been defeated and we're still behind the rest of New England.

At Toledo those fellows showed what spirit really means. The Rockets outweighed the Bobcats about fifteen pounds per player. They had a surprise third touchdown, but that wasn't what happened after the half that any team will ever see. It would have gone to college, and Marion took a place on this team even if his ankle hadn't been in the picture.

The first half was a wild open game, and we were all proud of the Bates line. His blocking was one of the big reasons we won. It was a cold, grey day, and the players were shivering with a cool confidence in a victory that seemed sure.

The ceremonies were marred only by the presence of the largest lobster in the world, Monty Moore, seventeen pounds, six ounces, on behalf of the Governor of Maine. The Governor had to be hoisted up into a tank of ice water. He was the star of the ceremony. He was sitting in a cool classroom, listening to the sportswriters, and envying the guinea pig. In spite of unbeatable odds, he lived! The ceremonies were observed carefully every fifteen minutes, for Monty is easily killed by too much heat or cold.

He had been the best choice imaginable, a cool, collected statesman, no politician, no department, just a simple man. He was the star of the ceremony. He was sitting in a cool classroom, listening to the sportswriters, and envying the guinea pig. In spite of unbeatable odds, he lived! The ceremonies were observed carefully every fifteen minutes, for Monty is easily killed by too much heat or cold.

Glass Bowl Contest Proves Nip And Tuck As Bobcats Threaten To Final Whistle

Joe Larochelle is on the lookout for the third straight win that would advance the Cats to the Bowl.

In the end zone. Then another pass was intercepted, and scored a touchdown.

The Cats took over after a punt and put the ball in the red zone. Bates' luck changed for the better.

Joe Larochelle is the leading scorer for Bates in the Bowl and looks to keep his scoring streak going.
