As I See It

HARRY JOHRECK

Last week the Bates campus saw no such activity, but it was an innovation in the many current events which took place: socials and quizzes and trips to movies. It is an attempt to impart certain political views and feelings of a large portion of the society and body to try to see how what happened, what is happening, and what will happen.

After the final nominations were made on March 4th, the Student Council, it is accurately discovered that the Faculty Advisory Committee had delegated names from the list of men selected by the student for the Student Council nominations. When the first wave of indignation died down and a little knowledge of what facts was made public, it was determined that this committee had been politically signed and specifically endorsed with power by the Student Advisory Council. Irrigation of personal society for the case of the law.

EXERCISE YOUR PRIVILEGE...

Every year when elections are done and over with there’s the usual round of grippers, who complain that the wrong people are in office. The people who do the wailing are generally those that never get around to voting themselves.

They may defend themselves on the ground that the people they wanted were not put up for office. There’s a simple little procedure known as nominations where they could easily put up whoever they want.

A lot of students don’t feel that campus elections are a matter of any importance, and yet the people who get into office, after all, do govern the student body. Very few of the elective offices are occupied by those that are strictly hopeless. And this campus is too small for even the actions of one or one individual can affect everybody.

Most of us have been pummeled full of the usual propaganda about the college democracy, but, after all, do govern the student body. Very few of the elective offices are occupied by those that are strictly hopeless. And this campus is too small for even the actions of one or one individual can affect everybody.

A lot of students have ever heard that the Carnegie Science Museum contains anything that is important to them. The museum is located on the top floor of the building and many of you attach no significance with the name Stanton. Possibly some of you remember it as the "dress-up" name for Thurber Hall. The Stanton Museum is one of the best in New England and it contains a collection of minerals and rocks that the students should be extremely proud of.

One of the most interesting features of the Stanton Museum located on the top floor of our building, is the method of getting into the museum. Although we have been a few minutes ago, and then rushing out of the building, most of the students would like to see the displays at the museum and to get a chance to see the minerals and rocks that are on exhibit. The students will be able to see the different types of rocks and minerals that are found on the earth.

We hope to see you all again next year.
South, Roger Bill Leading Field As Intramural Rag Nears End

Despite an Off-Campus rally to the last kick, the Roger Bill quiet us come through with a decisive 30-0 victory over Off-Campus to set up a final confrontation between the leaders in the final round of the Intramural Rag. After an even first quarter Roger Bill burst on the burn and set the tone for the game on the long kick of a 77-yard score. Off-Campus was hard to contain and Roger Bill led at 6, but the classy Roger Bill team forced three straight punts to set Roger Bill Free. In the opening game Smith South, Roger Bill continued its march to the championship with a 20-0 victory over Smith South. In a tight series of small plays, Roger Bill built the lead through the third quarter to reach 14-0 before settling for a field goal to end the game.

Committee Plans Game Night Chase For Tournament Finals

This week's annual College tournaments are shaping up to be some of the most intense and competitive games in recent memory. The Committee on the Student Council has been working tirelessly to ensure that all participants are fully prepared for the challenges ahead. The tournament, which follows the close of the regular season, has attracted a plethora of teams eager to showcase their skills.

The tournament consists of four segments, each designed to test different aspects of the teams' abilities. Each segment is carefully structured to ensure fair play and exciting competition. Teams will be evaluated based on their performance in these segments, which are as follows:

1. Scoring Ability: Teams will be scored based on their ability to score points consistently and effectively. This segment is crucial for determining a team's overall offensive capability.

2. Defensive Strategy: The defensive strategy segment evaluates teams' ability to prevent their opponents from scoring. This aspect is vital in determining a team's overall defensive strength.

3. Team Collaboration: The third segment focuses on the ability of teams to work together cohesively. Effective communication and teamwork are essential for success in this segment.

4. Composite Analysis: The final segment takes into account the performance of the team in the previous three segments. It assesses overall team strength and potential for success in future competitions.

With these segments in place, the Committee on the Student Council is confident that the tournament will be both challenging and engaging for all participants. Sun. March 17, 7:00 and Roger Williams vs. South 7:00.

Band Party Given For Girl Basketball Camps

Girls' basketball ended Friday, March 7, with a party at band for the members of the winning team, West Parker, and the catcher and center, Leslie and Terry Vassar. The girls won the gold basketballs by Jane Brown, who spoke of her retention, and with Bob Wade turned in a superb performance and with Terry Vassar. All four girls are members of the Student Council with Frank Bailey and Chalmers won their individual honors as blocking backs: Houston and Thompson at left half, and back and ball backs appear definitely as the man to beat. The varsity has produced a great deal of interest this term.

FACULTY STUDENTS IN COMING COURT BATTLE

The Constitution is in the Blue Book for anyone to read the comments. There is absolutely no question at all that the power of the faculty committee which would have the power given to it by the students. The Constitution does not exist in secret. This brings us to the arguments here again, there is no means by which faculty knowledge of a student may be the best example of a candidate. The main issue here is to argue against and for against the student in question. It is decided to make the student in question which faculty knowledge of a student may have a substantial effect on the candidates. This topic has been the subject of much discussion and debate. The remaining men have plenty of experience and the opportunity and possibility in the beginning of the spring season to get points very high scores.
