Committee Vetos Cancel Smoker

The Student Council announced plans to hold a smoker sponsored by a student organization on Tuesday night at Mt. Mansfield College. In the face of objections of the administration, some council members claimed that this year's smoker will be called the "Lady Night" with the girls invited to the hot dog night and other events. The blue tie bill which was vetoed last year was vetoed again, and the council revealed that these reasons were given as the failure of the smoker to receive college approval.

"It is not customary here at the College to have an affair of this sort at the beginning of the year, especially at this time of the year when it is important that students shall devote much time to study. Therefore we have decided, at this time, the present time the woods, grounds, etc., are not dry on Mount Mansfield and the College does not want to spend money on a smoker."

In the third place, the "Men's Committee" wishes to reserve the time for some . . . (Read the co-educational affair).

Another reason is that shorty bill at the beginning of the year must be devoted to the so-called Mayors.

A smoker for the Council does not mean that they will lose their good name and social ability. The present trend is to have a social in the living room of the Deans, and this is the reason they hold the smoker on some nights. The council members on the weekend calendar, the smokers are currently held on meetings from 7:30 to 9:30; that the principal activity is greatly increased for the men, but to (Continued on page four).

Marjorie Harthan, president, described the effort as an outgrowth of the demands made by Miss Rose Bampton, a cert dramatic soprano and a star of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

The afternoon will be remembered for its very pleasant conversations with a most gracious and charming artist.

Russell Tests Depth Perseveration By Student's Ability At Pulling Strings

By Robert Fross

White Elephant talks about the fourth dimension, John Russell is all worried about the third.

Most Bates students who wear glasses, Russell says, haven’t got the slightest idea of what it’s going to be like to have to stand up and see right end to two upright sticks which the artist drags in the front of the room. He puts the “booby-prize” at the end of the room. He has his glasses on, and he is not going to look at the wall and the “booby-prize” is four feet away. He has got to analyze the situation and he has got to stand up and see.

Mrs. Russell says, “That’s the kind of thing that’s going to happen when the world takes a real interest to know what it is.”

Russell’s test is to have one slate first one string and then the other until they thought they had the sliding sticks lined up even with each other. Each student had three trials.

The purpose of this lengthy 300 was to provide a test out by a table set on page four.
