Academic Standing Legislation Proposed
by Frederick Leong

The Academic Standing Committee has proposed new legislation which is comprised of four sections. This legislation establishes minimum requirements to determine the academic standing of students. It involves both freshmen and upperclassmen. If passed, the new legislation will be published and distributed to all the students.

Students who fail to meet the minimum academic standards will be notified by the Dean of the College of their academic status (probation or dismissal). Students who have been dismissed can appeal to the Committee for an exception and may be given an opportunity to present extenuating circumstances for their case. It is hoped that this method of appealing to the Committee will afford both the students and the Committee a chance to act on a more informal and personal basis to determine a matter of such importance. This process is more automatic and it is the student's performance and not a committee decision which determines student status.

In the legislation, the Committee has recommended that the names and disposition of the students who have been dismissed or who are on probation be reported to their individual Academic Advisers. Another suggestion was that a statistical summary of these students should be presented to the faculty with the names of the students withheld — unlike the present situation. The Committee will present two dates for the dismissed student to apply for readmission. This application should be made to the Academic Standing Committee through the Dean of the College or the Dean of Students.

However, dismissed students must wait at least one semester before they can apply for readmission and students who have been dismissed twice will not be readmitted. Upon application, the student will meet with the Dean of the College to determine his eligibility for readmission. In addition, he must submit a written statement to the Committee. Students will have to give sufficient proof that they are prepared to return to the responsibility of the academic pursuit at Bates.

The purpose of the legislation is to clearly identify minimum standards so that students are totally aware of their status. The Committee will no longer act to "flunk" students out; the students will be given an opportunity to present extenuating circumstances for their case. It is hoped that this method of appealing to the Committee will afford both the students and the Committee a chance to act on a more informal and personal basis to determine a matter of such importance. This process is more automatic and it is the student's performance and not a committee decision which determines student status.

R.A. Debates Budget Proposals

In a sometimes stormy and rather lengthy meeting Tuesday, the Representative Assembly modified and accepted the recommendations of the R.A. Budget Committee. This year the 16 organizations (plus the C.A. Special Fund) requested a total of $65,482.00. The Budget Committee paired this down to $59,037.00 in its recommendation. The R.A. added $200.00 to this total in debate before passage of the recommendation.

The process of funding the various organizations began in early October when each activity submitted a budget to the R.A. Budget Committee, headed by R.A. treasurer Kevin Ross. In a series of meetings at which they discussed each individual budget with the representative of that organization, the Committee determined what in their opinion was a fair and justifiable amount for that activity. Tuesday, their recommendations were aired before the R.A., and each organization was given a chance to state its agreement or grievance with the proposed allocations. The final allocation which was approved by the R.A. will go before the Student-Faculty Committee on Extra-Curricular Activities today. This committee has the final say on Activity Fee allocation.

Most organizations asked for an increase, either to expand its activities or to keep up with inflation. The total increase in the Student Activity Fee was $1.85 per student per semester, or a total of $24.18 per student per semester. The Student Activity Fee is part of tuition, and each organization is given a certain amount per student each semester. The total each organization is given is calculated on the basis of 1225 students. If there are more than this number enrolled next fall, each organization will receive an additional amount.

The Budget Committee's recommendations were generally followed by the R.A. as a whole, but there were some additions. There was a great deal of discussion about which activities and organizations should receive funds, and to what purpose they should be put.

The R.A. voted to restore $100 of the $200 for the Afro-Am Society requested for Sub-Frosh Weekend. The Committee had decided not to fund the weekend, stating that they felt this was a function of the Admissions Office and that "The Student Activity Fee is not collected to be spent on recruiting. The Admissions Office budget is." Afro-Am countered by pointing out that while it might be the duty of the Admissions Office, they are either unable or unwilling to fund the weekend. Thus, Afro-Am was forced to pay for it out of their own budget. There was general agreement that the weekend, which allows blacks who would not otherwise do so, to visit the campus, was an important effort in the recruitment of black students, and Afro-Am's budget was amended to include $100 for this purpose.

A Film Board recommendation to restore the $400 requested for salaries to projectionists met with little support and was defeated. The Medical Arts Society requested that the R.A. restore their budget of $420, but the R.A. voted not to fund the group for the reasons listed below in the final recommendations. P.I.R.G. asked that their budget, which had been cut from $1400 to $100, be increased to $400. However, after much discussion, the request and one for a $100 increase were voted down by close margins.

The budget of the Student was increased by the $100 the Committee had cut as a penalty for holding a staff dinner while still having an outstanding loan. The R.A. voted to restore the
Quiz Results

O.K., nice job by your guys getting the answers to our quiz last week. I know you haven't been able to sleep since you failed to name the mayor of Lewiston, so, since your aim is beginning to suffer (God forbid) here are the answers.

1. He committed suicide.
2. A.J.C. broke our streak on a field goal by Ralph Bayek.
3. The president before Reynolds was Charles Franklin Philips.
4. Harry Campbell is the College Accountant.
5. John Orestis is the mayor of Lewiston.
7. The gym was built in 1925, the Cage in 1926-27.
8. The name of the puddle is Lake Andrews, you should be shot if you missed it.
9. The fight was held in the Youth Center, not the Armory as a considerable number of you thought.
10. The College Bowl team members were... well look them up yourself.

The winners of the Leo Koteck albums were John Chapman, John Pothier, Pat Sturtevant, Rich Curtis, Olaf Grichthon, David Campbell, Steve Hodge, John Gearing, Chris Richter, and Glenn Matlack.

For those of you who did not win, you can see Leo tomorrow night in the Chapel for two shows, 7 and 10 p.m. Tickets are available in the CSA office for $3.00 or at the door for $4.00.

Credit Discrimination

Establishing credit has almost become a necessity in today's "buy now, pay later" market.

For some, however, this process has been more difficult than they are denied credit on the basis of sex, marital status, or other reasons unrelated to their actual ability to repay a loan. One of the most obvious examples of this is that women often have a much harder time in obtaining loans and other extensions of credit.

In fact, it has not been unusual for a woman with an excellent record of bill paying, a good job, and a saving account to be refused a loan unless her husband also signs the agreement. The situation is often worse for the single or divorced woman.

On October 28, new regulations went into effect under the Equal Credit Opportunity Act which should eliminate some of the inequities in lending policies. This law prohibits a lender from giving any special value to or penalizing of a credit applicant because of sex or marital status. Under these new regulations issued by the Federal Reserve Board, credit applications will no longer require identification of an applicant's sex or marital status, although space may be provided for an applicant wishing to volunteer that information.

In addition, creditors cannot ask such personal questions as whether the female loan applicant plans to have children or use birth control. This regulation is in response to the fact that some creditors summarily judge a pregnant woman as a poor credit risk which, when used as the sole basis for credit denial, is unfair.

Scoring systems, whereby more credit points may be given a married individual and less to a single or divorced person, can no longer be used, and practices of counting only a portion of the wife's salary, if at all, in the determining income and how much a couple may borrow must be discontinued. Similarly, for a divorced person, any alimony or child support payments received must be considered as income.

If the marital status of an individual changes, the creditor may request a new application for credit, but in the determining income and how much a couple may be disqualified if the ability to pay has been significantly altered. If one's credit is denied or cancelled, then that person can demand a written explanation from the creditor within 60 days.

These laws and regulations will help give equal footing to women in the money lending market. Later this year, the Senate will consider additional legislation in this area to ensure that no one is denied credit on the basis of age, race, color, religion, or national origin.
The Truth About Old Coram

by June Peterson

We all have our own fantasies about what the old Coram Library should or will become. (We do?!) The Bates Student has tracked down the truth. Contrary to popular belief, there are no immediate plans to employ the facilities as a dorm, study area, pub, dining room, gym, administration building or playboat club.

Actually, no definite plans have been made, due to lack of funds, although the proximity of the building would easily facilitate its again being an addition to the academic community.

Possibility studies were done four years ago, before the new library was built. It seems that the most practical development of the building would be as a gallery space to take the place of the Treat Gallery, which is at times very inadequate. Contained here would be revolving displays, not the permanent kind such as are characteristic of those found in a museum.

For those interested in the historical aspects of the old "lib" some info will here be provided. In 1932 the collection of volumes previously housed in Hathorn Hall was moved to the Coram Library, named for Joseph A. Coram of Lowell, Massachusetts, who presented $20,000 for the building. In 1949-1950 the Coram Library was renovated. The addition that was built on at this time was removed upon the construction of the present library, so the building is now restored to its original form. Both the first and second floors contain a large room with several small rooms located on the ends.

The truth probably has disillusioned some. We'll now have to find some new aspect of the Bates College Community to hypothesize about. Let's see if we can get some even wilder rumors going in the future!

Merit Badge Counselors Sought

by Jon Fowler

As you may have noticed, there has been increasing interest lately in involving members of the Bates community in Lewiston-Auburn's Scouting program. Some aspects of the program, such as the request for Assistant Scoutmasters to work directly with the troops, would tend to involve those who have had previous scouting experience. Others, including the merit badge program, not only require no such experience, but a smaller time commitment as well. Scouting offers over one hundred different merit badges, in areas as diverse as agriculture, athletics, the skilled trades, and academics. One purpose of the merit badge program is to teach specific skills through those badges that the Scout is required to earn, such as First Aid, or Citizenship in the World. Another is to provide boys from ages eleven to seventeen with a structured way of investigating areas which they have an interest in, whether this interest be recreational (skiing), vocational (metalworking), or academic (environmental science). If you have taken a few courses in the field of economics, physical education, art, physics, biology, chemistry, math, geology, English, music, or theater, you are probably qualified to be a counselor for at least one and possibly five or six of the thirty-two academically oriented merit badges offered by Scouting. A merit badge counselor doesn't spoon-feed information to a group of note scribbling boys; his or her job is to provide access to information, and to be familiar enough with the subject to discuss the required information with the Scout once he has sought it out.

The requirements generally include explaining terms, providing historical or background information, demonstrating certain skills, and becoming familiar with visiting places involved in whatever area the merit badge is concerned with.

We are interested in helping make some of the resources at Bates available to the Scouts of Lewiston-Auburn, contact Larry Block, Hodge 312, for all necessary information.

N.W.C. News

by John Rogers

"The stage is being set here for one of those acts of international injustice which the world not infrequently permits because nobody is interested enough to do anything but look the other way.

"The de facto Government of Portuguese Timor — a naive and hopeful group of vaguely left-wing Catholic Europeans — is to be destroyed. The only question still open is whether this will be done by the slow strangulation of limited military action, diplomatic blockade, or by the knock-out blow of full-scale invasion."

So writes Martin Woolcott from Jakarta. Indonesia in a recent issue of the Manchester Guardian. Bates News World Coalition is trying to show that people do care about what happens in this isolated part of the world. Next Monday and Tuesday, a petition urging Indonesia to respect the territorial integrity of timor will be conducted in the supper line.

Portuguese Timor is the eastern half of the island of Timor, which lies to the Malay Archipelago about three hundred miles north of Darwin, Australia. About 600,000 people live in Portuguese Timor — just about all of them are Timorese, because the one-time Portuguese population was wiped out by the Japanese during World War II. Until last year's revolution in Portugal, no political activity was tolerated in the colony.

After the revolution three political parties were formed in Timor: Fretilin, the UDT, and Apoderi. Fretilin and the UDT, the two more important parties, called for elections to assert independence for Timor. The UDT was the more conservative of the two parties, favoring the interests of the coffee planters who control the colony's only export industry. Apoderi, Indonesian backed, called for union with Indonesia.

Because of the possibility of oil being discovered off the coast of Timor, Indonesia began putting pressure on Portugal to allow them to annex the colony. On February 25, the Australian government revealed that it was seeking it out.

The requirements generally include explaining terms, providing historical or background information, demonstrating certain skills, and becoming familiar with visiting places involved in whatever area the merit badge is concerned with.

We are interested in helping make some of the resources at Bates available to the Scouts of Lewiston-Auburn, contact Larry Block, Hodge 312, for all necessary information.

Concerned at reports of possible Indonesian military action against Timor, Indonesia has directed these reports, claiming that their army was engaged in road-building near the border dividing the Portuguese and Indonesian sections of the island. But Indonesia continued to back Apoderi and launched a propaganda campaign against Fretilin.

On July 13, Portugal passed a constitutional law providing for elections in October 1976 to a People's Assembly which would draw up a constitution for the country. But in August, the conservative UDT launched a coup in an attempt to take over the colony. The Portuguese governor, Col. Lemos Pires, a conservative, did not interfere with the coup. A few days later Fretilin demanded truce, a very successful counter-coup. The leaders of UDT and Apoderi fled to Indonesia, and Col. Pires is, according to the Manchester Guardian, "on the offshore island of Atauto, drinking champagne on the beach and ordering the diversion of the colony's regular supply ships.

Indonesia is now making threatening noises. It has armed and trained UDT raiding parties. Portugal's reluctance to hand the situation over to Indonesia and Australia's refusal to cut off Timor's air link with Darwin have restrained Indonesia. But President Suharto is under pressure from his own government to try to make a coup in an attempt to take over the colony. The Australian government revealed that it was seeking it out.

The only question still open is whether the people of Timor should have the right to self-determination, to try a totally defensible course of action — put your name down.

TURKEY FUND

by Pat Marinaro

As most of you have noticed, Thanksgiving is rapidly approaching, and with it comes the second annual Turkey fund drive. The Salvation Army has confirmed our suspicions that there are still families in Lewiston who really need our help in having a good Thanksgiving dinner. Their economic situation has not changed since last year, and they need whatever we students and faculty at Bates can give. Last year's total was good, but we can do better. The Bates Christian Fellowship and the Newman Council are both supporting this endeavor, and with a little extra effort, the New World Coalition to join us.

This appeal goes out to all Bates students concerned with the world hunger crisis. It's all very well to worry about people starving in India, Africa, and China, but what about in California, Mississippi, New York, or Maine? True, we live in the U.S. as elsewhere, but it is right that in a land of plenty some should have great abundance while others are just barely subsisting? This isn't equality at all. There must be something we can do about it. If even half the Bates community contributed the price of two cokes or one beer to our Turkey Fund box, we would have over $300, enough to feed 6-8 large families or very many elderly people. Those of you who have little brothers or sisters know how this call for help is no joke. It is such a great hardship to give up one Den break out of a week.

If after considering the questions in this article you wish to make a small contribution, the Turkey Fund box will be at the Concierege for your convenience. Please be generous and have a happy Thanksgiving.
College Adds New Courses
by Gary Jones

The purpose of this article is to acquaint students with a few of the new courses to be offered this coming semester. Unfortunately, by the time many of you read this, you will already have registered. But perhaps this may help some of you decide. At any rate, you will find the courses open to everyone, without prerequisites. Certainly the professor himself should be consulted about upper level courses or about the particular of any course.

This replaces an Anthropology course, Buddhism and the Social Order, and this will be taught by Steven Kemper. It is designed to offset the lack of courses taught by any department which deal with this geographical area. Three basic texts will be used, and there will be a mid-term, a final, and one short paper. Previous ISC booklets should be consulted for evaluations of this and the other professors. This should be of some help, but word-of-mouth reports from other students should also be solicited.

The Math department will offer a sophomore seminar in Calculus math with Fundamental Topics in Mathematics II, to be taught by Professor Straub. This course is described as the "usual beginning math course: three or four hour tests, many short quizzes, much homework, and little classroom participation by the students." Prof. Brooks is an enjoyable prof., so if you took him last year and liked it, the second semester should be fun.

Mr. McDonough of the Philosophy department will teach a new course, Introduction to Philosophy: Philosophy and some Fundamental Human Concerns. This course replaces Philosophical Theories of Freedom which was to be taught by McDonough. The course will consist of both lecture and discussion, and the requirements will include four to five short papers, together with a midterm and final. This would seem like a lot of work, but it is possible that the format will change, and fewer students sign up for this course. But this looks like it will be a good course, it shouldn't be excessively difficult, and it aims at giving an understanding of the role of philosophy in the development and nature of western culture, as well as some insights into the personal relevance of philosophy.

RICHARD HOFFMAN TO RECITE POETRY

There will be a poetry reading by Daniel Hoffman this Wednesday at 8 PM in Chase Hall Lounge. Hoffman is Chancellor of the Academy of American Poets; and from 1973-74 served as consultant in Poetry of the Library of Congress. He has received grants from the National Institute of Arts and Letters and from the Ingram Merrill Foundation. He is now Professor of English at the University of Pennsylvania, having previously taught at Columbia University and Washington College. Professor Hoffman is the author of many books of poems, including The Central American Eruption, Striking Low: A Study of the Poet of Form and Fable in American Fiction, The Poetry of Stephen Crane, and Poe Poe Poe Poe. This was nominated for a National Book Award.

The reading is free and open to the public.

ACTION at BATES

BOSTON — A Peace Corps recruiting team will be at Bates College at the Placement Office in Alumni Hall on Frye Street on Tuesday, November 18, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., to interview mid-year and June graduates who are interested in the 14 year old program.

Ms. Andrea Loughry, a former VISTA volunteer in Denver, Colorado, and Doug Friedman, a former University Year for ACTION and VISTA volunteer in Western Massachusetts, will be conducting the interviews and providing information for all interested persons.

Currently, the Peace Corps is seeking potential volunteers with education and/or experience as home economists, dieticians, nutritionists, farmers, engineers, nurses and health professionals, teachers, and those with business backgrounds.

Ms. Loughry said that volunteers can range in age from 19 on up — "our oldest Peace Corps volunteer is 81." One must volunteer for two years. Presently there are approximately 65 overseas nations with openings for volunteers.

Faculty Vote on Several Proposals
by John Blatchford

Last Friday, The Student went to see the Dean of the Faculty, Mr. Carl B. Straub, to inquire what went on at the November Faculty meeting (held on Nov. 3, the first Monday of the month.) No students are permitted to attend these meetings.

On the first part of the meeting's agenda under section "A": Previously introduced proposals, defined as deliberative legislation were two items. The first, brought up by the committee on Residential Life, represented by Mr. Carignan, was a "Proposal to change the current regulation regarding consumption of alcoholic beverages (previously submitted.)" The Faculty voted on and passed the proposal, which read: "The responsibility for alcohol education and the institution of regulations regarding the use of alcoholic beverages on college property and in college facilities be established and administered by the Dean of Students. The regulations shall be published for the campus community."

What this does then is give the Dean of Students, Judith Isaacsen, responsibility for any changes in where, when, how, and by whom booze can be drunk and distributed.

The second proposal under section "A" was submitted by the Committee on Educational Policy, represented by Mr. Straub. This item read, "Proposal to adopt certain policies concerning course and unit registration adjustment (previously submitted.)" Dean Straub told The Student that no decision was reached and the proposal was sent back to the C.E.P. for further study.

This brings us to Section "B" on the Agenda, titled New proposals, defined as routine legislation. The first item under this section was submitted by the Committee on Curriculum and Calendar, represented by Mr. Kingsbury. These were "Proposals for additions to the Curriculum" which included new courses in Anthropology, Biology, Economics, History, Mathematics, Philosophy, Latin, German, Geology, Psychology, Speech, Portuguese, and Theater departments. All courses were approved by the Committee and voted and passed by the Faculty.

The third section of the agenda, section "C", was called: New proposals, defined as deliberative legislation. The first proposal came from the Committee on Student Conduct, represented by Mr. Hodgkin. The proposal amended the judicial procedures of the Committee to assure the confidentiality of student's names brought before the Committee among the faculty. Previously the students' names would be reported to the faculty, and the proposal would change this. The C.S.C.'s proposal will be voted on at the next Faculty meeting.

The second proposal was brought up by the Committee on Academic Standing, represented by Mr. Cole. This was a "Proposal to adopt certain policies on academic standing." More on the policy changes can be found in Frederick Leong's article.

There were a few other reports to be brought up, but due to lack of time, were not brought up. These were Oral reports of the President's Advisory Committee and the Committee on Student Conduct. The next Faculty Meeting will be on December 8.
"Is John Studley there?”, asked a Bates mother, phoning her son last Wednesday night.

“No, he’s already taken, you fool!”, but we have a lot of other fools, if you want them.

She was mildly shocked, to say the least. This unsuspecting mother had unknowingly tried to make a date with her son because he had phoned into that curious Batesian tradition, Sadie Hawkins dance calls.

"Hey John," his friend on the phone replied, “that gives you six calls and puts you out in front by two.” John was ecstatic; in his three years at Bates, he had risen from the depths of no calls in his freshman year, to getting picked during call backs last year, to the ultimate height of getting five calls in the early running this year.

Unlike everyone else, John still didn’t know who his date was by the time Saturday rolled around. He begged his early running this year.

As 8:00 closed in, John began to get nervous and his heart skipped a beat as each of the girls came in to claim their prize, until finally he was the only one left. He held that last drink in his hand, ready to slug it down at a moment’s notice if he didn’t like what came through the door. As he sat with his eyes focused on the door he saw it slowly open, and was shocked. Oh my God! He thought John, she looks just like gnome 1 know. Quickly he stumped the drink and slugged it down in his chair.

Minutes later, a beautiful co-ed strolled into the lounge only to see her Sadie date being slapped by a babbling French Canadian gnome. When John came around to reality Sunday morning, he couldn’t believe any girl could look like that and was relieved to have dumped her so easily.

On Tues., Nov. 18, there will be a "Fast for a World Harvest." This fast, sponsored by the New World Coalition, is part of an attempt by Oxfam America to lessen the world food crisis.

Each year, enough food is produced on this earth to sufficiently feed most of the world’s people. Why then did the Rome Food Conference estimate that there are 460 million severely malnourished people in the world and predict that this number would increase rapidly? The answer is simple: People eat what they can afford, and each year less and less of the world’s population can afford to properly nourish themselves.

One possible solution to this problem lies in helping the small farmer. Self-sufficient farming accounts for 3/5 of Africa’s agricultural production and 1/3 of Latin America’s. Asia falls somewhere in between. Many small farmers face unpredictable weather conditions, unproductive soil, and inadequate storage facilities, all of which lessen the chances of a successful crop. Crop failure means that the farmer and his family go hungry. This reduces moral, health, and energy, and makes it even harder to produce a crop.

In America and Canada, we grow upon small farms, which require large amounts of labor, as inefficient compared to our large, mechanically harvested farms. This may be true for other countries with a small capital and a large work force, small farms provide a logical alternative. Using proper farming techniques, small farms are able to match or surpass the U.S. per acre yield, even under poor growing conditions!

People in remote parts of the world simply cannot depend on America’s large production to feed them. Transportation of food is very costly, and totally impractical. They must rely on their own farms to provide for them. Oxfam America is devoted to helping small farmers farm better. They support decentralized community farming. They give farmers knowledge and equipment to use irrigation, new seed varieties, and fertilizers to increase yields.

This helps more sense than many other approaches to this devastating problem since it provides a lasting solution rather than a temporary alleviation. It is the philosophy of “Give a man a fish and he eats for a day. Teach him to fish and he eats for a lifetime.”

You can help in this effort by giving up as many meals as you can on Nov. 18. Sign up for the fast at the dinner line on Sun. or Mon., Nov. 16 and 17. Any questions may be asked at that time. On the day of the fast, hand in your I.D. card at the concierge before the first meal you wish to skip, and pick it up after the last meal you wish to skip. The money that would have gone to pay for the meal will be donated to Oxfam.

Among the projects that your money will be funding are the construction of windmills for irrigation in the drought ridden Omo Valley of Ethiopia, and the education of farmers in the Tambopata Valley of Peru in improved methods of farming. It should be emphasized that this fast is not just on the Bates Campus. It is a national effort which will really help people in need. It is a consciousness raising event for Bates students. Take this opportunity to feel what hunger is really like, and imagine what it would be like to face it every day. If you are tired of just hearing about the food crisis and want to start doing something about it, here’s your opportunity. Please help out.

Gridders Drop Finale to Mules
By Nils Bonde-Henrik森

The Bates Bobcats, plagued by seven costly turnovers, ended their 1975 season on a disappointing note Saturday. When the Colby Mules came out on top 21-12. For the Bobcats it was their sixth loss in eight games.

The Mules were obviously psyched-up for this game as they took the opening kickoff and marched 71 yards in 11 plays to lead 7-0. The Colby score came when quarterback Jim Hayes hit flanker Mark Higgins on a fourth down TD pass for 4 yards. When the Bobcat offense finally got the ball, they ran only one play before fumbling it over to Colby on the Bates 25. With such good field position, colby threatened to increase their lead, but Bates linebacker Steve Lancer intercepted on Colby’s first play to end the threat.

Early in the second quarter another Bates fumble gave the Mules the ball in good field position, this time on the Bates 15. Colby appeared to have another golden opportunity, but on 2nd down from the 12 yard line, Bates safety Kip Beach picked off a Hayes pass on the goal line and returned it to the 16. This interception was followed by an exchange of interceptions, one by Colby’s Brad Farrington and another by the Bobcats Kevin Murphy.

The only Bates threat in the 2nd quarter occurred when the Bobcats moved from their own 18 down to the Colby 18, before once again fumbling the ball away. Bates was lucky to trail by only a mere 7 points at the end of the first half. It had taken three interceptions to stop the Mules from running away with the game.

Bates took the second half kickoff and moved into Colby territory before being forced to punt because of a lengthy clipping penalty. The Colby defense then swarmed in to block Dwight Bell’s punt, and the Mules took over on the Bates 20. A 5 yard penalty was not enough to phase Hayes, as he hit fullback Gerry Teven on a 25 yard touchdown pass. Kicker Steve Plomaritis increased the Colby lead to 14-0.

The Bobcats then mounted their longest drive of the day. Moving from their own 14 yard line, the Bobcats made it to the Colby 7 yard line before being stopped. After the Mules drove fail, Bobcat captain Mark Shapiro pulled off what was the most exciting play of the season. Fielding the punt on his own 34 yard line, Mark sprinted 30 yards to the Colby 13. “Shaps” electrifying run back seemed to inspire his teammates. Not only did they score on a six yard run by quarterback Steve Olsen, but they also recovered the following kickoff on the Colby 25. The Bobcats then closed out their scoring when Olsen hit Shapiro for a 25 yard pass. Having scored twice within 11 seconds the Bobcats seemed to be on the comeback trail.

Any chances of a victory were fumbled away in the 4th quarter. With only 12 minutes left in the game the Bobcats started a drive that took them down to the Colby 33. It was here that another Bates fumble helped the Mules preserve their lead. The Mules moved out to the 40 before being forced to punt. But, once again the Bobcats, this time Facco and Roderick, recovered the punt, the punt went out, though only 152 yards in the left, Hayes again found a receiver open on a 31 yard scoring pass. The extra point made it 21-12 in favor of Colby, which is how it ended, as the Mules ran out the clock.

For the Bobcat team, it was a disappointing season, with one bright spot — a stunning upset of C.W. Post. Individually, Captain Mark Shapiro had another brilliant year — he has rewritten the Bates receiving records and proved to be the true leader of the squad. Next year’s team will sorely miss Mark and his fellow seniors Pete Basileiere, Pete Boucher, Dave Edwards, Sparky Goddison, Duane Homer, Roy Lockhart, Mike Lynch, Brian MacDonald, Mark Reddish, Larry Sagol, Kip Beach, and Tom Wells.
Booters Downed By Tufts

by Fred Clark

Bates soccer closed its season last Saturday with a 2-1 loss to Tufts in a game somewhat typical of the entire season. Bates outshot its opponent, had plenty of golden opportunities to score but still came out with only one goal. Andre Drobney scored twice that many for the victors and that was all they needed.

The first half started with Tufts completely in control. They got off some strong shots but goalie Jim Hill was playing another of his fine games and thwarted the Tufts attack time and again. Drobney scored on a diving head ball which came off the cross of Jon Frandekick midway through the first half. The midfield had been very well controlled by captains Pat Sullivan and Denis Lowrey along with Owen Hart. But the goal seemed to shake Bates out of its slumber and they started to put sustained pressure upon the Tufts defense. Goalie Doug Grant played a bellwether game and the Tufts backs made few errors though at times were badly outplayed by the Cats' offense.

A bare minute into the second half Drobney scored his second goal when he blasted a shot from the outstretched Hill. Assist went to Dave Demnick on the pass. Bates rebounded well as the men in the center of the field — Tonrey, Iida and newcomer Manning Herr — kept the pressure on the Tufts defense. The three of them got off a total of fifteen shots for the game. Claudia Iida was the only one to get a shot past goalie Grant when Manning Herr (the leading JV scorer this year) got the ball past Grant and Iida kicked it into the empty net. The efforts of "that little kid," as his opponents referred to him, or "Columbo," as his teammates called him, should not go unnoticed (and they couldn't be by anyone who saw him play). After a slow start, Claudia finally gained confidence in his ability and finished the season with four goals and two assists — all except one goal coming in the last five games.

Although Bates had several good offensive threats in the latter quarter of the game, Tufts controlled play for the most part and held on to the victory which evened their record at 6-6-1. Another losing season has past for the Bates College soccer team but certainly was a better year than the past two or three. It was a youth team with a good deal of talent but not much depth. The fullback crew will suffer the loss of Angie Salvucci and "Doc" Ellis but still will have Mark Diteris, Stan Pelli and Greg Zabel. Surely no defense would notice that Captain Jim Tonrey and Angie Salvucci as usual was second man for the team, finishing 38th. Rick DeBruin was 46th, Tom Leonard 55th, and Jim Anderson 71st. The team score was 225 points.

The team title was a close battle between Providence and Northeastern. Providence, which was a heavy favorite, found itself in deep trouble at the three mile mark. Northeastern had six men before the frar's third. However, with so many Jesuit priests around PROVIDENCE could hardly be expected to lose. Stetson Arnold and John Savoie got moving in the last mile and a half, and coupled with a one-two finish by Mike O'Shea and John Tracey (Yes folks, they're Irish, and rumor has it they train in incisions proportional to their finish positions,) Providence managed to eek out a 3 point win. Massachusetts, which had a terrible race, finished 3rd, with 146 points. Northeastern was a heavy favorite, but still came out with only one goal. Stetson Arnold and John Savoie got moving in the last mile and a half, and added to an already impressive season. They finished 6th in their meet, more than 60 teams and over 500 runners, the course may have to be changed slightly to find a starting line big enough. Because of their familiarity with the course Bates runners will have a slight edge over midwestern and western schools.

Judging by the performance of team members over the course of the season, Bates has an excellent chance for at least two All-Americans. In addition, the team has a good chance of placing among the top ten in the nation. NESCAC prohibits Bates sending a team to national meets unless each team member qualifies as an individual, which they have. Thus Bates will qualify for a team score.

This will be the last competition for the team this season.
R.A. Budget Committee Presents Recommendations from p. 1 money because it was felt that the facts in the case did not warrant a penalty, and because it was not fair to punish the staff of one year for the acts of the student of another. In addition, two paragraphs were deleted from the Committee's recommendation for the Student Newspaper. The rejection of the original Student budget recommendation was one of unanimous approval. The final recommendations by the Committee are reprinted below.

AFRO-AM SOCIETY The Budget Committee recommends that Afro-Am receive $1275. We recommend that it receive funds accordingly:
1. Black Perspectives Weekend — $500. We feel that too much to spend on one weekend.
2. Movies related to the promotion of Black awareness — $400. We feel this is justified and will aid Afro-Am in its efforts.
3. Afro-Am is free to use the phone in the C.S.A. Office.
3. Sub-Fresh Weekend — $100.
4. Guest Speakers — $200. This was felt to be reasonable and in line with the requests of other organizations.

CAMPUS ASSOCIATION The Campus Association requested $7000 to expand, but to maintain the current level of services. The Budget Committee takes note of the fact that the Campus Association has been well administered and provides many services to the Campus. We feel the request is justified.

C.A. SPECIAL FUND The C.A. Special Fund requested $3,062.50 to insure quality speakers and small concerts, barbecues. Casino, adminstered organization and that it services to the Campus. We feel the Chase Hall Committee has done fairly controversy over the issue of the big
The Committee notes with approval the offer of the Film Board to train Chase Hall Committee personnel to show movies thus enabling that organization to save money on its Winter Carnival Film Program. The Budget Committee does object to the request for $400 to pay salaries to projectionists. This is an item which the Budget Committee deleted last year and has deleted this year. The idea of paying students salaries to take part in extracurricular activities is at odds with the philosophy of these activities. They are something one gets involved in because one has an interest, not because one wants to make a buck. In addition, since funds are tight, it is felt that what money is available should not be squandered on salaries. Finally, we note that the projectionist jobs are not open to all, but only to those half dozen deemed worthy of training.

MEDICAL ARTS SOCIETY The request of this group was $420, of which was cut automatically as it should have been used to purchase alcohol. Sherry. Student Activity funds may not be used to purchase alcohol. After much discussion, it was our decision not to fund this group. We felt that this group should be supported by the O.C.C. We feel to fund this group would only open the door to groups of a similar nature. We approve of the objectives of this group, but we feel that it should be funded by the College, not by the Student Activities Fee.

NEW WORLD COALITION The New World Coalition requested $2500 next year. We cut $1500 from their $200 increase for speakers as they should follow the fine example the Student Activity Funds. We feel that this group is an organization which can be supported by the O.C.C. We feel that the increase is justified due to the expansion of its experimental film program ($100) and other increased costs. We note with approval that costs have been cut by more efficient movie selection procedures and the dropping of the unprofitable mid-week movies.

PHOTO CLUB The Photo Club should receive $300 next year. We note that this group provides darkroom facilities to its members and a program of lectures. The Photo Club has a good rapport with the photographers who presumably contribute to the various publications. We feel that the College do more to maintain the darkroom as it is college property.

THE REPRESENTATIVE ASSEMBLY The Budget Committee recommends that the R.A. receive $925. We note that the R.A. is involved in many campus activities that can't receive funding elsewhere. We also note that it incurs expenses for running campus-wide elections. The committee recommends that the R.A. cease to fund dorm parties and use the money for a wider variety of events.

WOMEN'S AWARENESS

Although Women's Awareness has been granted Student Activity Funds in the past, we chose to treat it as a new organization due to the fact that it collapsed last year. We recommend that it receive $600. Its efforts so far this year have been commendable. Their meetings have been well attended — by men as well as women. In addition, Women's Awareness hope to bring in films and speakers and to sponsor a radio program. As far as their collapse last year, it can be fairly said that part of the responsibility belongs to the R.A. and the Faculty Committee on Extracurricular Activities for their refusal to allow a group more than a trifling $96.

All these activities should be successful and we are confident that Women's Awareness will continue to be an integral part of the Bates community.

OUTING CLUB The Budget Committee requests that the Outing Club receive $3125. The Committee feels that the Outing Club has not received an increase in 3 years. The last change in their budget, 3 years ago, was a decrease. We feel that the Outing Club is justified in receiving this increase as they are a well administered organization and have very little financial waste. We marvel at the complexity and thoroughness of their bookkeeping procedures.

PHOTO CLUB The Photo Club should receive $300 next year. We note that this group provides darkroom facilities to its members and a program of lectures. The Photo Club has a good rapport with the photographers who presumably contribute to the various publications. We feel that the College do more to maintain the darkroom as it is college property.

PUBLIC INTEREST RESEARCH GROUP It is the opinion of the Budget Committee that the original PIRG request was unrealistic. We were skeptical as to the extent of interest in PIRG on this campus. We are unsure as to whether or not PIRG will last. It is with this in mind that we cut their request from $1400 to $1000. It is hoped that expenses seemed unnecessarily high. Much of their publicity can be handled through the Newsletter and the Bates Student. We felt that travel expenses were unjustified. The request for $600 for 2 publications was not considered. publications were thought to be a grossly excessive use of Student Activity Funds. We feel that the College should follow the fine example the New World Coalition and prove themselves on limited funds before they ask for a larger budget.

PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION The Publishing Association has requested $25 to cover the costs of printing constitutions and other expenses. We feel that this request is justified and will aid the P.A. Board in coordinating the activities of the Garnet, Mirror, and Student.

1. Garnet The Budget Committee recommends that the Garnet receive $1222. We feel that the increase is justified by rising costs of printing the yearbook and by the increasing difficulty of finding advertising in the Lewiston area. We feel that as everyone on campus receives a copy of the Garnet, the increase is justified.

2. Mirror The Budget Committee recommends that the Mirror receive $1800 for 1976-1977. We feel that the increase is justified by rising costs of printing the yearbook and by the increasing difficulty of finding advertising in the Lewiston area. We feel that as everyone on campus receives a copy of the Mirror, the increase is justified.

3. The Bates Student The Bates Student has requested $7100. The Budget Committee recommends $7100.

CHASE HALL COMMITTEE Chase Hall Committee requested $15,312.50 for the year 1976-1977. The amount per student/per semester is the same as in the previous year, showing a decrease from the increase in students. We feel the request is justified.

There has been a great deal of controversy over the issue of the big concerts and this was discussed in great depth within the Committee. We decided that the budget could not be popular with 100% of the campus, the Chase Hall Committee has done fairly well. We encourage them, however, to try to get an idea of what Bates students want more of them will attend. We note that the Student Newspaper is a well-administered organization and that it does more than put on big concerts. This includes maintaining the coffeehouse, putting on small concerts, barbecues, Casino, Winter Carnival Film Festival and other activities, and co-sponsoring Disco.

NEW WORLD COALITION The New World Coalition should receive $800 next year. We cut $600 from their $200 increase for speakers as we felt that this was too much. We support the opinion of the Budget Committee that NWCL provides needed diversity on campus. In terms of cost efficiency, the NWCL provides more activities than many larger budgeted organizations. Food Day of 1975 has had more participation than the campus Committee that the original PIRG request was unrealistic. We were skeptical as to the extent of interest in PIRG on this campus. We are unsure as to whether or not PIRG will last. It is with this in mind that we cut their request from $1400 to $1000. It is hoped that expenses seemed unnecessarily high. Much of their publicity can be handled through the Newsletter and the Bates Student. We felt that travel expenses were unjustified. The request for $600 for 2 publications was not considered. publications were thought to be a grossly excessive use of Student Activity Funds. We feel that the College should follow the fine example the New World Coalition and prove themselves on limited funds before they ask for a larger budget.

PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION The Publishing Association has requested $25 to cover the costs of printing constitutions and other expenses. We feel that this request is justified and will aid the P.A. Board in coordinating the activities of the Garnet, Mirror, and Student.

1. Garnet The Budget Committee recommends that the Garnet receive $1222. We feel that the increase is justified by rising costs of printing the yearbook and by the increasing difficulty of finding advertising in the Lewiston area. We feel that as everyone on campus receives a copy of the Garnet, the increase is justified.

2. Mirror The Budget Committee recommends that the Mirror receive $1800 for 1976-1977. We feel that the increase is justified by rising costs of printing the yearbook and by the increasing difficulty of finding advertising in the Lewiston area. We feel that as everyone on campus receives a copy of the Mirror, the increase is justified.

3. The Bates Student The Bates Student has requested $7100. The Budget Committee recommends $7100.

THE REPRESENTATIVE ASSEMBLY The Budget Committee recommends that the R.A. receive $925. We note that the R.A. is involved in many campus activities that can't receive funding elsewhere. We also note that it incurs expenses for running campus-wide elections. The committee recommends that the R.A. cease to fund dorm parties and use the money for a wider variety of events.

All these activities should be successful and we are confident that Women's Awareness will continue to be an integral part of the Bates community.

WRJR WRJR request $4555 for 1976-1977 and the Budget Committee concurs. The increase will be used for preventive maintenance and for technical improvements designed to improve the broadcasting potential of WRJR.

The increase in maintenance would avoid even more costly repairs due to equipment breakdowns. We note the recent $500 capital improvement grant to the station in providing news and musical programs and the broadcasting of athletic events.

The request for $4555 is justified and will aid in the upgrading of the station facilities.
